

THE FRIENDS OF ALGONQUIN PARK

The Friends of Algonquin Park (FOAP) is looking forward to this upcoming year with excitement as it continues to work towards many educational programs and projects in Algonquin Park. This includes a collaboration with our partner the Algonquin Forest Authority (AFA). We hope you will join us to celebrate both the new cadge crib exhibit at the Algonquin Logging Museum and the AFA's 50th anniversary at this year's Loggers Day on Saturday, July 26.

The Friends of Algonquin Park's Board of Directors is pleased to share with you our Land Acknowledgement in this newsletter. We were gratefully guided by the sage advice of Director Christine Luckasavitch, an Omàmiwinini Madaoueskarini Anishinaabekwe (a woman of the Madawaska River Algonquin people), to ensure that our Land Acknowledgement would be meaningful and purposeful to us as an organization.

We are thrilled to welcome new board member Mike Sladden to our team. Mike began his time in Algonquin Park in 1969 as a third generation camper at Camp Pathfinder on Source Lake. He went on to work on the trip staff and take on a number of leadership roles at the camp. After his time at camp had ended he became the Curator of Education at the International Museum of Photography and Film at the George Eastman Museum in Rochester, NY. However, Algonquin called to him and in 1999 he became a co-owner and Director of Camp Pathfinder. Mike and co-owner Glenn Arthurs stewarded the traditional canvas canoe tripping camp and outdoor education centre, for the next 24 years. Mike has also served on the Board of Directors of the Ontario Camping Association and continues to serve on the Board for the charity Kids In Camp.

Conversely, we say a very fond farewell to John Swick, Algonquin's Superintendent for the past seven years, who is starting an exciting new chapter in his Algonquin story with his retirement on May 31. John has been a good friend and trusted advisor to us all and we will miss his interest in and dedication to The Friends of Algonquin Park's efforts. We wish him the very best on his new adventures, so keep an eye out for him in Algonquin's backcountry with a paddle or fishing rod in his hand. The Friends is looking forward to welcoming and working alongside Algonquin's next Superintendent.

All of you, who are reading this newsletter right now, are likely Algonquin Park visitors and therefore we consider you our "friend." There are a variety of ways that you can support the ongoing work of The Friends of Algonquin Park.

If you would like to contribute to the many programs and special events that The Friends provides, please consider becoming a "Member" by visiting our website (<https://www.algonquinpark.on.ca/foap/memberships/>) to use the Online Membership Form and to learn what benefits your membership will include. You can also sign up in person when you are at the Visitor Centre or Logging Museum.

The Friends of Algonquin Park is dedicated to Algonquin Park and its visitors. If you would like to help support our efforts, please see the last page of this newsletter for other ways to give back to this incredible place.

Please join us in our mission to enhance the educational and interpretive programs to develop current and future stewards of Algonquin Park. Your support is very much appreciated!

2024 DIRECTORS AWARD

On June 3, 2024, The Friends of Algonquin Park presented the award to the Algonquin Park Lodges, the ceremony was held at the Algonquin Park Visitor Centre.

Algonquin's lodges have provided unique accommodations and amenities to park visitors since the early 1900's. If these facilities had not existed many people may never have experienced Algonquin Park.

During a brief Algonquin lodges history presentation, the former Algonquin Park lodges were honoured. These lodges include Glen Donald Lodge (Source Lake), Highland Inn (Cache Lake), Hotel Algonquin (Joe Lake), Kingscote Lodge (Kingscote Lake), Kish Kaduk Lodge (Ceder Lake), Lake Traverse Camp (Lake Travers), Minnesing Camp (Burnt Island Lake), Mowat Lodge (Canoe Lake), Poplar Point Lodge (Rain Lake), Whitefish Lodge (Whitefish Lake), and Wigwam Lodge (Kishokokwi Lake). These lodges made it possible for visitors to enjoy and learn about Algonquin Park.

The three remaining Algonquin Park lodges, Arowhon Pines, Bartlett, and Killarney were recognized and presented with the Directors Award for their continuous contributions toward the appreciation of Algonquin Park. They not only provide their guests with accommodations and meals, but they have also supported The Friends of Algonquin Park through various projects such as hiking trails, human history exhibits, publications and interpretive program information.

The Friends of Algonquin Park is grateful for the lodges generous support over the years.

Algonquin Park Wild Bird Cam Live!

Algonquin Park is home to excellent bird watching opportunities. During winter, many northern bird species migrate south offering a blend of northern and southern bird species that attract visitors from around the world. Third-Party Fundraising

Coffee with a Cause

Ottawa Valley Roast House was founded with a purpose and they wanted to be able to give back to their community. Their promise is to donate a portion of every sale to support wildlife and nature right here in the Ottawa Valley. Not only did they provide a donation, owner Kayla attended Winter in the Wild and gave out free coffee & matcha tea throughout the day at the Visitor Centre.

Greg Worsnop, longtime member of The Friends of Algonquin Park, commissioned Julie Brackenreid to design this poster in 2019 to be sold by The Friends of Algonquin. We had sold out in 2022 so in 2024, Greg had this poster reprinted which means 100% of poster sales are again staying in Algonquin Park.

Thank you to all our partners for these creative fundraising ideas in support of Algonquin Park!

Updated and revised. A great majority of animal species in Algonquin Provincial Park are insects. The purpose of this book is to give you an overview of these fascinating creatures. This checklist is the product of 125 years of botanical exploration and study of Algonquin Park's flora.

In Memory of our DEAR FRIENDS

Bruce Falls
(1923 – 2024)

Bruce Falls did his post-secondary education at the University of Toronto and then joined the Department of Zoology as a faculty member in 1954, where he was a valued colleague and mentor. His research encompassed a range of ecological questions, including his 36-year study of small mammal population dynamics in Algonquin Park, and the breeding behavior of birds. As part of his extensive work, he pioneered the use of the playback of bird song recordings to study their territories and behaviour. In 1992, he received The Friends of Algonquin Park Directors Award for these accomplishments.

Tom Linklater
(1930 – 2024)

At Loggers Day 1999, Tom was presented with the Directors Award for his valuable contributions from 1990 – 1998 to the interpretation of Algonquin Park's logging history and the physical heritage of the Park through his skilled craftsmanship. Tom generously donated the manuscript for his book, The Last Forest Ranger: Algonquin Park Memories (2020) to The Friends of Algonquin Park. His long life featured some amazing experiences, most of which are captured in his book.

The Board and Staff express our condolences to the Falls and Linklater families.

Algonquin Park Legacy?

Inspire Future Generations

On behalf of the Board of Directors and staff of The Friends of Algonquin Park, I am honoured to share this newsletter with you. This publication is for you, our Park Visitor, and for all those who feel a strong connection to the remarkable gem we call Algonquin Park.

While we cooperate closely with Ontario Parks to support its mandate, we are entirely funded by donations and proceeds from the sale of our programs, books and materials. With the exception of our small staff, we are volunteers who share the same connection with our visitors. As a registered charity, we are 100% dependent on contributions and hope those who share an experience in the Park will become sustaining donors. Please help to pay it forward by becoming a contributor.

THE FRIENDS OF ALGONQUIN PARK ANNOUNCES THE CONSTRUCTION OF A NEW INTERPRETIVE WALKING TRAIL IN ALGONQUIN PARK

It has been more than 20 years since visitors have experienced a new interpretive walking trail in Algonquin Provincial Park. The last time was in 2001, when The Friends of Algonquin Park supported the building of the 3-kilometre Big Pines Trail that educates visitors about the history and ecology of Ontario's provincial tree, the White Pine. Prior to that, The Friends of Algonquin Park funded the spectacular 10-kilometre Centennial Ridges Trail that was opened in 1993 to celebrate Algonquin Park's birthday, and the establishment of Ontario's provincial park system a century prior.

Since 1983, The Friends of Algonquin Park has been actively involved in supporting Algonquin Park's interpretive walking trails. Whether coordinating Adopt-A-Trail volunteers to report problems, focusing maintenance efforts, publishing millions of copies of educational trail guides, or funding the creation of new trails, Algonquin Park's hiking experiences would not be the same without the recreational, educational, and financial contributions of The Friends of Algonquin Park.

"Algonquin Park's walking trails, known as interpretive trails for their educational trail guides and corresponding numbered posts, are extremely popular with visitors," says Lee Pauzé, Executive Director of The Friends of Algonquin Park. Research shows that 94% of Algonquin Park visitors state that access to hiking is an extremely important part of their visit, with more than 80% of visitors walking one or more interpretive trails during their visit to Algonquin Park.

With the approval of Ontario Parks, and the support of community partners, The Friends of Algonquin Park is constructing a new interpretive trail in Algonquin Park. The new trail, that will visit scenic lookouts, requires the construction of an innovative floating boardwalk and numerous footbridges to protect sensitive areas, plus building two significant sets of stairs like those found on the existing Track and Tower and Booth's Rock Trails. All these measures will not only provide for a more enjoyable recreational experience, but will also help to protect Algonquin Park's ecological integrity.

This new interpretive trail will be the seventh trail The Friends of Algonquin Park has supported since its establishment in 1983. Like the other interpretive trails located in Algonquin Park, this new trail will feature an educational trail guide published by The Friends of Algonquin Park, allowing visitors to better appreciate Algonquin Park's natural and cultural heritage during their hike.

"The construction of a new interpretive hiking trail doesn't just happen" says Linda Leckie, Chair, The Friends of Algonquin Park. "Our staff, along with dedicated volunteers have been working relentlessly behind the scenes to create this exciting recreational and educational opportunity for Algonquin Park visitors. At this time, we need your support to help fund this project, and I would encourage everyone to help us by funding a metre (or more) of this brand-new trail."

The Friends of Algonquin Park is currently seeking private and corporate donations to support this new trail. Won't you donate and be a part of this exciting new trail in Algonquin Park?

PLANNED GIVING

Planned giving allows you to make a gift to Algonquin Park today where the value of the gift is deferred in whole or part until a later date, often upon the death of the donor and depending on the type of gift, income tax relief is either realized today or in the future. Of course, talking to your lawyer or financial advisor will help you and your family decide how to best fulfill your legacy to Algonquin Park.

You can make a difference and ensure your legacy in Algonquin Park by considering these options:

Bequest • Gift of Life Insurance • Shares or Securities • Gift of Real Estate
